MORE OF THE STORY NEXT CYCLE!

ONE EMPIRE. ONE STANDARD. ONE GOAL.

The cameras once again open inside the luxurious conference room of the Arrogant Empire estate. Seated at the head of the table is “the Forever Champ” Tommy Zulu while IWA Network reporter Stephanie Gallows sits across from him.

GALLOWS: “Welcome back to another IWA Network exclusive. I'm Stephanie Gallows and once again I'm joined by ‘the Forever Champ’ Tommy Zulu. Tommy, last cycle we talked about your Forever Series Challenge and your history with EDGE. Before we continue down memory lane, let's talk about the present because things didn't exactly go your way this round.”

ZULU: “Nope. Not much sugar-coating that one. GDP swept me in the IWL and Big Rye got the better of me pretty much everywhere. It wasn't a good round, but that's why we compete. If it was easy, everybody would do it.”

GALLOWS: “Are you surprised by the results?”

ZULU: “Not really. Disappointed? Sure. Surprised? No. GDP is one of the top up-and-coming managers in the game right now. Anybody paying attention can see that. And Big Rye is one of the best to ever do it. His résumé speaks for itself. It's only one round and there's still a lot of road left in both series, but if there's one thing this cycle reminded me of, it's that I better raise my level, especially in the IWL. If I keep performing like that, neither one of these challenges is gonna end the way I want them to.”

GALLOWS: “Speaking of the IWL, you've also finally gotten what many people have been waiting for all year. You and Caleb Crowdad will meet in the semi-finals of the Best of the Best Tournament.”

ZULU: “Looks that way. The tournament finally forced the issue. All year long we've been circling each other without ever actually colliding. Now there's nowhere to run, no scheduling quirks, no missed opportunities, no excuses. The bracket says we're fighting and that's good enough for me. I think it's the clash the entire IWA has been waiting for since January. Two of the top managers in the game finally standing across from one another with something meaningful on the line. That's what competition is supposed to look like.”

GALLOWS: “Last cycle you promised you'd begin sharing some of your history with EDGE. You mentioned that the roots of that relationship go back much further than most people realize.”

ZULU: “Way further. To really understand my history with EDGE, you've gotta go all the way back to 2002. At the time, neither one of us had really established ourselves. EDGE wasn't the powerhouse people know today and I certainly wasn't the Forever Champ. In a lot of ways, we were both taking a chance on each other. I was still trying to establish myself and they were still building their identity.”

GALLOWS: “What do you remember from that first run?”

ZULU: “Honestly, not a whole lot. At the time I was dealing with military deployments overseas, so I was constantly in and out of the game. My participation wasn't exactly consistent. What I do remember is that it was a positive experience. EDGE gave me an opportunity and I've always appreciated that. No matter how things turned out later, that's something I'll always acknowledge.”

GALLOWS: “But eventually the relationship ended?”

ZULU: “Yeah. For whatever reason the contract ran its course and we went our separate ways. There wasn't any drama. There wasn't any feud. It just ended and everybody moved on.”

continued...

GALLOWES: "When did EDGE come back into the picture?"

ZULU: "A few years later. Around 2006 or 2007. By then everything had changed. EDGE had become one of the premier stables in the game. Their stock had skyrocketed. At the same time, my own career was starting to gain momentum. Looking back, it seemed like the perfect match. EDGE was ascending. I was ascending. It felt like something that was destined to work."

GALLOWES: "But it didn't?"

ZULU: "Well... not exactly."

GALLOWES: "What happened?"

ZULU: "ACE happened."

GALLOWES: "The legendary ACE?"

ZULU: "The legendary ACE. At the time they were what many people still consider the greatest stable in fantasy wrestling history and they were right in the middle of their prime years. Then one day they came calling. That's not the kind of opportunity many people get and it's certainly not the kind of opportunity many people turn down."

GALLOWES: "So you left EDGE."

ZULU: "I did. And I tried to do it the right way. I turned in my notice, I was respectful about it, and I accepted what I believed was a tremendous career opportunity. From my perspective it was a professional decision. I wasn't trying to disrespect anybody. I wasn't trying to burn bridges. I was simply taking the next step in my career."

GALLOWES: "But not everyone saw it that way."

ZULU: "No. Not everyone saw it that way. There were people who were upset. There were people who felt betrayed. There were people who viewed it as me abandoning the team. Whether that was fair or unfair isn't really the point. The reality is that my departure was met with a lot more anger and animosity than I expected."

GALLOWES: "Would it be fair to say that's where things began to change between you and EDGE?"

ZULU: "Without question. Looking back now, that's probably the moment where the relationship stopped being what it had been. We were never really the same after that. We remained part of the same community and our paths continued to cross over the years, but the dynamic had changed."

GALLOWES: "And that's where we'll leave the story for today?"

ZULU: "That's where we'll leave it. Next cycle we'll pick it up from there and talk about what happened after ACE, how our paths kept crossing, and how we eventually ended up standing on opposite sides of the battlefield."

GALLOWES: "I look forward to it. Tommy Zulu, thank you once again for joining us."

ZULU: "Pleasure was all yours, Steph."

The camera slowly fades out as the black-and-gold Æ banner fills the screen.
